

Unit 3, video script

- Man: Hello! What would you like?
- Woman: Hello. I'd like the menu, please.
- Man: We don't have a menu. I'm the menu.
- Woman: Are you?
- Man: I mean, I can tell you what we have today.
- Woman: Uh huh. So what do you have to eat?
- Man: We have sandwiches, we have a tomato or potato salad or a delicious carrot soup.
- Woman: I don't really like salads, and it's too hot for soup. Do you have a tuna sandwich?
- Man: Yes, we do. Would you like two? They are small.
- Woman: No, I'd like one tuna sandwich, please.
- Man: What would you like to drink? ... Beer, wine?
- Woman: I don't like alcohol.
- Man: Do you like juice?
- Woman: Yes, I do. A lot.
- Man: OK. We have apple, orange, banana, tomato, mango, ...
- Woman: Oh, mango is good.
- Man: Yes, it is.
- Woman: Well, then I'd like one tuna sandwich and a mango juice, no ice. Thank you.
- Man: That's a tuna sandwich and one orange juice.
- Woman: Mango.
- Man: Oh, mango, right. Of course. I'm sorry. ... Would you like anything else?
- Woman: The bill, please.
- Man: Now?
- Woman: Yes, I'm sorry. I don't have a lot of time.
- Man: OK. That's £5.60 for the sandwich, £3.25 for the juice. That's £8.85, please.
- Woman: Here you are. Keep the change.
- Man: Thank you very much.
- Woman: You're welcome.
- Man: Would you like a dessert? We have ...
- Woman: No, thank you. That's very nice, but ...
- Man: Listen. Let's meet for dinner. On Friday night. In the the pub on the high street. At 7 p.m? I'd like to tell you more about our menu.
- Woman: Well, I think I would like that.
